Fishery Leaflet 599

Washington, D.C.
Revised October 1966

PREFACE

Since 1948 the U.S. Department of the Interior has annually compiled a list of fishery cooperatives in the United States. The list has included the name and address of all known fishery cooperatives. This issue of the list of fishery cooperatives, however, includes not only the name and address of each cooperative but also gives in most instances the name of one of the officers of the co-op, the number of members, the number of boats owned by members, the type of each cooperative, and the major species of fish and shellfish caught.

The number of organizations is constantly changing as new cooperatives are organized and others discontinue operations. This list is published only as the best information currently available and not as authoritative data. The Department assumes no responsibility in supplying the list to inquirers. Those cooperatives with the abbreviation (B.I.A.) shown after the name are under the direct supervision of the Bureau of Indian Affairs of the Department. The sources of information for this leaflet are a survey of all U.S. fishery cooperatives initiated in August 1966 and completed October 1966, and a recent mail survey to check on addresses of these cooperatives.

No two fishery cooperatives are identical in all respects. Each co-op now in existence was organized to solve a problem--a problem unique to the fishermen of a particular geographic area; therefore, the organizational and operational activities engaged in by each cooperative are different. Bargaining, marketing, and purchasing are the major types of fishery cooperatives, but a cooperative may have combinations of these types. The bargaining cooperative uses a committee appointed from the membership to meet with individual processors to negotiate mutually acceptable terms and conditions for the sale of fish and shellfish products. The marketing cooperative actually accepts the products of its members for sale to dealers, processors, and wholesalers. This type of co-op may furnish all the marketing facilities and services necessary to move the product from the producer to a wholesale or retail outlet. The purchasing cooperative is organized to supply marine gear and supply needs of the members and buy these at substantial savings.

Only organizations of fishermen currently recognized by the Department of the Interior as cooperatives under the provisions of the Fishery Cooperative Marketing Act of 1934 are included in this leaflet.

In addition, there are two other lists, one for unions and another for associations. Some activities of certain fishermen's unions are considered to be in the nature of cooperative marketing and have been considered as such by the Federal courts; however, all unions are listed in the List of Fishermen's and Fish Shore Workers' Unions in the United States. Only associations of fishermen and vessel owners (which are not cooperatives) and such associations composed of wholesale and retail dealers, processors, and distributors, are included in the List of Fishery Associations in the United States.

All three of the lists are revised periodically and may be obtained from the Branch of Foreign Trade and Economic Services, Bureau of Commercial Fisheries, 1815 N. Fort Myer Drive, Room 606, Arlington, Va. 22209.

The marketing cooperative actually accepts the products of its members for sale to dealers, processors, and wholesalers. This type of co-op may furnish all the marketing facilities and services necessary to move the product from the producer to the wholesale or retail outlet. The purchasing cooperative is organized to pool marine gear and supply needs of the members and buy these at substantial savings.

Only organizations of fishermen currently recognized by the Department of the Interior as cooperatives under the provisions of the Fishery Cooperative Marketing Act of 1934 are included in this leaflet.
