Fishery Leaflet 627
June 1970

Since 1948 the U.S. Department of the Interior has annually compiled a list of fishery cooperatives in the United States. The number of cooperatives is constantly changing as new organizations are formed and others are discontinued. This list is published solely as the best information available in December 1969, and not as authoritative data. The Department assumes no responsibility in supplying the list to inquirers. Cooperatives with BIA after their names are under the direct supervision of the Bureau of Indian Affairs of the Department.

No two fishery cooperatives are identical in all respects. Each co-op was organized to solve a problem--a problem unique to the fishermen of a particular geographic area; therefore, the organizational and operational activities of each cooperative are different. Bargaining, marketing, and purchasing are the major types of fishery cooperatives, but cooperatives may be combinations of these types. The fishery bargaining cooperative uses a committee appointed from the membership to meet with individual processors and negotiate the terms and conditions for the sale of fish and shellfish products. The marketing cooperative actually accepts the products of its members and sells them to dealers, processors, and wholesalers. This type of co-op may furnish all the marketing facilities and services necessary to move the product from the producer to the wholesale or retail outlet. The purchasing cooperative is organized to pool the members needs for marine gear and supplies and buy these at substantial savings.

This leaflet has only the organizations of fishermen currently recognized by the U.S. Department of the Interior as cooperatives under the provisions of the Fishery Cooperative Marketing Act of 1934.

In addition to this list, two others are published, one for unions and another for associations. Some activities of certain fishermen's unions are considered to be cooperative marketing and have been considered as such by the Federal courts; however, all unions are listed in the List of Fishermen's and Fish Shore Workers' Unions in the United States. Only associations of fishermen and vessel owners (which are not cooperatives) and such associations composed of wholesale and retail dealers, processors, and distributors, are included in the List of Fishery Associations in the United States.

All three of the lists are revised periodically and may be obtained free from the Division of Publications, Bureau of Commercial Fisheries, 1801 N. Moore Street, Arlington, Virginia 22209.
